PART I Aims and Scope

Chapter 1 Levels of Description and the Target of Explanation	2
1.1. Levels of Description in Linguistics	2
1.2. The Target of Explanation	3
1.2.1. What is ‘Explanation’?	3
1.2.2. The Problem of “Why this form but not that one?”: A Higher Order of Explanation	3
1.2.2.1. Kajita’s (1977) Dynamic Model	3
1.2.2.2. Dynamic Model Revised	3
1.3. Outline of the Thesis	4

PART II Some Derivative Processes:
Case Studies of Construction Extension

Chapter 2 An Analysis of a Derived Stress Pattern:
The Case of kilometer in American English	6
2.1. Introduction	6
2.2. Facts and Analysis	7
2.2.1. Types of Stress Pattern	7
2.2.2. Type-Specific Stress Pattern	8
2.2.3. Peculiar Behavior of kilometer	8
2.2.4. Analysis	8
2.3. Discussion	10
2.3.1. Problems	10
2.3.2. Solving Problems	13
2.4. Final Remarks	14
2.4.1. Logic of Linguistic Description	14
2.4.2. Other Cases Explained	15
2.4.3. Idiosyncratic Mutations	16
 Chapter 3 Epenthesis and a Mode of Extension	 18
3.1. Introduction	18
3.2. Facts and a Mode of Extension	19
3.3. Exceptions and the Logic of Extension	25
3.4. Conclusion	28
 Chapter 4 The Grammatical Naturalization and a Mode of Extension
.....	30
4.1. Introduction	30
4.2. Grammatical Naturalization (GN)	30
4.3. A Mode of Extension	33
4.4. Analysis of GN	34
4.5. Conclusion	36

Chapter 5	The Interpretation of Keats' To Autumn
	and a Mode of Extension	37
5.1.	Introduction	37
5.2.	Phonological Facts	39
5.3.	Analysis	39
5.4.	The Case for the Mode of Extension	43
5.5.	Conclusion	49
Chapter 6	The Genesis of English Head-Internal Relative Clauses
	(With Appendix: The Intensional Qualification of Quantification)	51
6.1.	Introduction	51
6.2.	Putative HIRCs	53
6.3.	Genuine HIRCs	55
6.3.1.	HIRCs and Their Syntactic Characteristics	55
6.3.2.	Semantics of HERC and HIRC	61
6.4.	The Genesis of HIRC	63
6.5.	The Structure of the English HIRCs	65
6.6.	Other Data Explained	66
6.7.	Possible Counterarguments	67
6.8.	Theoretical Issues	71
	Appendix: The Intensional Qualification of Quantification	74
6a.1.	Introduction	74
6a.2.	Three Types of Definition	74
6a.3.	Definition of Quantification	75
6a.4.	Consequences of Intensional Definition of Quantification	77
6a.5.	Summary and Residuals	84
Chapter 7	Water Finds Its Level: Derivatives Find General Rules	85
7.1.	Introduction	85
7.2.	Exceptions and Regularities in Phonology	86
7.2.1.	Primary Stress Placement	86
7.2.2.	Vowel Quality 'Restoration'	89
7.3.	Exceptions and Regularities in Lexicon/Morphology	92

7.4. Exceptions and Regularities in Morphology/Syntax 93
 7.5. Exceptions and Regularities in Syntax 95
 7.5.1. Nominal Adverbial 95
 7.5.2. Grammatical Naturalization 97
 7.6. Theoretical Issues 98

Chapter 8 The Dungeon Construction: A Syntactic Hapax Legomenon 101

8.1. Regularity and Irregularity in Exceptions 101
 8.2. The Dungeon Construction 102
 8.3. Assumptions 104
 8.3.1. Grammatical Dynamism 105
 8.3.2. Major Rules vs. Minor Rules 106
 8.3.3. Extensional Dependency 109
 8.4. Analysis of the Dungeon Construction 110
 8.4.1. With-Construction 110
 8.4.2. Adverbial Phrase Preposing 118
 8.4.3. Analysis 120
 8.5. More on the Dungeon Construction: Further Extension 123
 8.6. Conclusion 125

PART III Dynamic Model Reviewed and Revised: Theoretical Issues

Chapter 9 Empirical Puzzles 128

9.1. Grammatical Dynamism 128
 9.2. Possible but Nonexistent Examples: Accidental Gaps 129
 9.3. Improbable but Existent Examples: Accidental Haps 130

Chapter 10 Theoretical Puzzles 133

10.1. How Far Extension Goes and When to Stop 133
 10.2. Grammatical Roudabout or Else 134
 10.3. Tautology 136

Chapter 11 The Revised Dynamic Model	138
11.1. Dynamic Model Revised	138
Chapter 12 Evidence for the Revised Model	141
12.1. Significance of the Revised Model	141
12.1.1. Empirical Puzzles Overcome	141
12.1.2. Theoretical Puzzles Overcome	142
12.2. More on the Revised Extension Format	145
12.3. Simple Illustration of the Adequacy of the Revised Model	145
12.4. The Nature of Logical Implication	147

PART IV Conclusion

Chapter 13 Towards a Theory of Explanation	150
13.1. The Revised Extension Format as an Explanatory Theory	150
13.2. Summary	152
References	153
Index	161
